DENNIS J (DJ) CRANE OF INVENSYS CONTROL JOINS CABA BOARD OF DIRECTORS

November 13, 2006

The Continental Automated Buildings Association (CABA) announced today that Dennis J (DJ) Crane of Invensys Controls was appointed to the association's board of directors. Crane replaces David Gill, who represented Invensys on CABA's board since 2005.

"I am extremely pleased to welcome DJ Crane to CABA's Board," stated Ronald J. Zimmer, CABA President & CEO. "His wealth of experience of the residential controls marketplace will be of tremendous benefit to our organization and its membership."

Crane currently serves as Vice President & General Manager, Safety and Aftermarket for Invensys Controls. His position includes overall responsibility for the company's products and solutions for smoke and carbon monoxide detectors, and for thermostats, primarily for the residential market segment.

Prior to Invensys Controls, DJ held senior executive positions with GE, Bell & Howell, AOL and Systems & Computer Technology. He has also served on boards for several early stage technology companies. His experience with global businesses includes a four-year assignment in Tokyo leading sales and services for a GE business unit across Asia Pacific. DJ is a graduate of the US Naval Academy and Stanford Graduate School of Business.
