CABA NAMED HOME ASSOCIATION PARTNER FOR NEXTGEN HOME EXPERIENCE

January 9, 2008

The Continental Automated Buildings Association is pleased to announce that it has been named the official connected home association partner for the NextGen Home Experience.

The NextGen Home Experience showcases the latest developments in contemporary living, from advanced home connectivity to storm resistant construction, energy efficiency and "green friendly" lifestyle enhancements onsite at major trade show events, online, on national TV and in print.

More than a concept, the NextGen Home Experience illustrates the latest construction advancements in home building to fill the needs of today's homebuyers, while also providing technological solutions that are both easy-to-use and affordable, making it simple to integrate these ideas into the modern home.

iShow, produces the NextGen Home Experience, which showcases an annual demonstration home at the Consumer Electronics Show in Las Vegas.

"CABA is happy to support the NextGen Home by working with industry and our membership to demonstrate the tangible advantages of digital and integrated home technologies," stated Ronald J. Zimmer, CABA President & CEO.

CABA is the only industry association to offer industry intelligence to stakeholders in all areas of home and building automation. CABA's focus on the connected home space includes research activities through its Internet Home Alliance Research Council, and industry collaboration through its Connected Home Council.
