IBC Webinar

“Interpreting and Leveraging IAQ Data in the Connected Building” (30 min) Special 30 min Keynote Presentation by Liam Bates (Kaiterra)

Liam Bates
CEO

Description: Indoor air quality (IAQ) is crucial when it comes to healthy, energy-saving buildings and when interpreted correctly, IAQ data can be a powerful tool to reduce energy consumption, lower maintenance costs, and extend the lifecycle of utilities in buildings, while ensuring the safety and comfort of its occupants. Fortunately, when it comes to IAQ, "monitor and improve" technology has joined the smart revolution. This means that keeping the quality of the indoor environment optimal can become an automated process, freeing up resources, and leaving nothing to chance.

Join us for an informative webinar where you will learn:

- Key IAQ parameters to measure and track
- Why you should take an automated, data-driven approach to your smart building strategy
- How to harness the power of IAQ data to turn insights into action
- Examples of companies transforming IAQ data into actionable insights
